Make this October Half Term Unforgettable with a Family Break to Geneva

Families looking for a mini getaway this October half term should look no further than Geneva, Europe's leading city break destination, for the perfect blend of fun and culture.

London September: This October half term, look no further than Geneva for the ultimate family getaway, offering the perfect blend of fun and discovery. From chocolate tastings and historic Old Town adventures to e-Tuk-Tuk tours through the surrounding countryside, there's something to delight every family in Europe's leading city break destination.

The adventure begins in Geneva's charming Old Town, where families can hop aboard a mini train for a whistle-stop journey through 2,000 years of history, passing iconic landmarks such as St Pierre's Cathedral and the Reformation Wall. Once disembarked, dive into Geneva's vibrant gastronomic scene, as highlighted in the Geneva Food Guide, with countless gems to look forward to, from waterside dining to charming spots tucked away along the city's cobbled streets.

For the culturally curious, Geneva is home to a variety of captivating museums for all ages - from the Vivarium de Meyrin, where children can discover the world of reptiles and amphibians, to MAMCO, Switzerland's largest museum of contemporary art. Families can make the most of their stay with the Geneva City Pass, providing free or discounted entry to over 60 attractions, including museums, galleries, boat tours, and excursions, as well as receiving a complimentary Geneva Transport Card for unlimited travel across the city.

No family trip would be complete without the Geneva Choco Pass, which unlocks a world of artisanal chocolatiers. Visitors can sample treats from participating chocolate makers over 24 hours, with delightful surprises for children along the way. Those eager to explore beyond the city can also cycle safely along dedicated lanes to take in Geneva's stunning natural landscapes or choose a Welo e-Tuk Tuk tour with fondue to uncover the region's charming, lesser-known countryside.

Whether travelling by train from London via Paris, or opting for a short flight, Geneva is the ultimate destination for an unforgettable October half term getaway. For more information, please visit the Geneva Tourism website.
